

Anke Dubois: My Educational journey

I've never really had problems with going to school, because I never had to go alone. Because I have a twin brother that was in the same class as me, until the third year of high school.

In kindergarten, I had quite a big mouth, which according to my parents never wanted to stop talking, in elementary school it started to slow down and in secondary 'm finally turns into a quiet student.

From my kindergarten, I remember very little. I remember very well my first grade of elementary school, because my teacher was my mother. This was a very unique experience, my mother never treated me or my brother different from the other students. In school she was a teacher like the other teachers and at home she was my mother, for me it was normal but the other students found it strange that I saw a difference between my mother at school and my mother at home.

The other years of my elementary school were not that special, except the sixth. When I was in the sixth grade of elementary school, my teacher of the fifth deceased. This was a heavy blow to the whole class at the time.

In high school I have always chosen the scientific directions, because those interested me the most. Starting from third grade of high school I knew what I wanted to be, a mathematics teacher.

The last two years I even followed sciences mathematics, because science and mathematics had become some sort of passion for me.

When I graduated from high school, I decided to study mathematics at the free university of Brussels. But after one year, I knew this wasn't for me. It was too theoretical and there was no link to education. It is also for this reason that I have chosen the following year to start a teachers training at the HUB, I also chose the subjects mathematics and biology because those subjects interest me the most.

Now that I am almost graduated from the HUB, I'm standing for a new choice, either I'm going to try to get a masters degree in mathematics or I'll try to get a bachelor degree in physics, but I don't know exactly what to choose.
